Business Results for FY3/25 and Forecasts for FY3/26

- In FY3/25, although domestic sales and profits increased, overall sales and profits decreased compared to the previous fiscal year due to a decline in demand for construction machinery in the U.S. and Europe.
- In FY3/26, we aim to make a comeback through stable domestic growth and recovery and new expansion overseas.
- Simultaneously announced the mid-term management plan "Rolling Plan FY2025-FY2027" based on the long-term vision "VISION 30".

- Impact of U.S. customs duties

- Currently, sales in the U.S. are mainly focused on hydraulic breakers. On the other hand, almost all hydraulic breakers distributed within the U.S. are imported products, so there is basically no difference in the impact of tariffs between the products of different companies.
- The differences in the responsiveness of each company for the time being depends on the inventory situation and pricing policies of the respective products. Our company is addressing this by passing on a portion of the tariffs through surcharge pricing while utilizing our existing inventory (approximately six months' worth).

The impact of tariffs on performance is similar for competitors as well, and the decrease in competitiveness is seen as limited.

FY3/25 Factors for Changes in Net Sales

- Domestic: Sales of our mainstay crushers increased significantly due to increased production capacity. Sales of forestry, large environmental machinery, and other machinery decreased due to a backlash from the strong performance of the previous year and the year before.
- Overseas: The demand environment did not recover in the United States, Europe, and Asia, resulting in lower sales compared to the previous year. North America was particularly affected.
